2) the amendment proposed by the Comptroller is reasonable and provision therefor exists in the British Civil Service Rules now in force. At present as the rules now stand if an Officer whose pay is changed owing to reorganisation and a part is treated as Personal allowance will have to draw his Daily allowance on that portion of the Salary without the Personal allowance while before the reorganisation he drew it on the whole amount which was his pay. The amendment proposed consist in adding the following sentence at the end of note 1 to clause (b) of Art 24 of our regulations changing the full stop after the word "pay" into a Comma. "but not for purposes of L.A., unless it has been granted to protect from loss an Officer, the pay of whose appt has been changed."

3) The amended article note would be as follows:- "Pers. allce is treated, for the purposes of calculating leave allces & pensions, as part of an Officer's substantive pay, but not for purposes of L.A., unless it has been granted to protect from loss an Officer the pay of whose appt has been changed." This amendment will incidentally dispose of the 2nd part of the Comptroller's Memo para 3 of addendum.

When personal allowance is treated as part of substantive pay for Leave allce & pension I do not see why it should not be so treated for Calculating travelling allce. In the Case of Senior Hospl asstts I am certainly of opinn that the personal allce which goes to make up the aggregate pay shd be treated as part of the Substantive pay and travelling allce reckoned on the whole pay including personal allce. In my humble opinn the propsed Amendment does not go far enough Submitted to His Highness.

In connection with the case of certain officials of the Office of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies whose pay was revised in the recent reorganisation, so as to convert a part of the pay into personal allowance, the question has been raised by the Comptroller whether the personal allowance should be taken into account for calculating the travelling allowances to which they are entitled.

A

2. Under the British Civil Service Regulations, personal allowances given in such cases are regarded as part of the pay for the purpose of calculating travelling allowances, and the Comptroller and Financial Secretary has no objection to the same rule being adopted in Mysore.

SIR,

I have the honor to state that Note 2 to Article 24 Mysore Service Regulations permits an officer, a part of whose pay is converted into personal allowance under certain circumstances to treat the personal allowance as part of his pay for purposes of leave, acting allowance and pension, but no mention is made as to how it is to be regarded for purposes of travelling allowance. Apparently there was no necessity at the time, to consider its application as affecting travelling allowance, as the officer to whom it was intended to apply were all entitled to daily allowance at fixed rates, and not at rates varying with the amount of their salary. An instance of the application of the rule arose recently while auditing the claim to daily allowance of 2 officials of the office of the Registrar of Cooperative Societies whose old rates of pay were revised recently, so as to convert a part of it into personal allowance. It is seen that there is an express provision in the corresponding Article of the Civil Service Regulations authorising the treatment of such allowances as part of substantive pay for purposes of travelling allowance also, but it has not yet been taken into the Mysore Service Regulations. The rule contained therein is an equitable one, and I think it is necessary to introduce it into the Mysore Service Regulations to provide for cases of the kind under consideration. The daily allowance of the 2 officials referred to above has been calculated and passed under that rule. I request that you will be good enough to obtain the orders of Government to embody the rule in the Mysore Service Regulations.

2. The opportunity may also be taken to issue a clear ruling as to how personal allowances of other kinds e.g., to Senior Hospital Assistants should be treated. The Civil Service Regulations apparently does not permit such personnal allowance to be treated as part of pay for purposes of travelling allowance.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Comptroller.
